MARGARET
COMICS

Little by little, Moe is beginning to recover her memories. She decides to turn Shougo into a good person, and watches from being his maid to being his teacher. She places a book stamp at her house for Shougo to learn something of the life of the maids, but nothing but fights about!

♡ When the season turns warm, I remember the new school term, and grades, and changing classes, and all that school- life stuff! Some- times I regret that I'm too old for that now, and I wish I could have that kind of fun a little while longer. I'd like to go back just once. I think, for a field trip or a school festival "How fun!" says Ukyou Ayane- sensei

PROLOGUE CHERRY

Ukyou Ayane

High school junior Shiori Shiori's family is comprised of her dainty mother, her brother with a huge water complex and herself. That's about all that's true about the Shiori family. There's one problem... They're incredibly poor!

Because of their poverty, Shiori goes to work for the most influential family in the neighborhood, the Tama family. The only son of the family, Shiori, a classmate of Shiori's, is popular and acts like a complete gentleman at school, so much so that he earns the nickname, "Prince Shiori." However, in front of Shiori he is a complete ego-maniac. The Prince shows Shiori so much love but they were friends as children?

However, Shiori has no memory of that childhood. It seems the reason is that a long time ago, she was mistaken for the Prince and was kidnapped. But...

Shiori determined to get her memories back, resolves to find that lost village the Prince came from. (1)

Greetings.

Hello hello.

This is Peter Dinklage, volume 2, I'm the author. Hello. The story's going well into its second volume. I'm so happy.

At the end of this volume, due to volume 3 there are some producer pages of the next volume and some other random drawings of mine. Please read this volume through to the end.

Well then. When work hours come not busy to myself. I have an obligation over the proofreading is done. "Because my editors do a lot of checking. This time I was saying it because the readers were looking forward to the story so I was told to add about 10% to it. I might not be able to add that much, though.

Well, that's the sort of thing that happens after proofreading's over.

Speaking of proofreading before you work goes to print, a lot of work you have thoroughly checking it for errors. That is an editor's most important job, with corrections.

On My Latest Hobbies

I got hooked into watching pre-wrestling last year (2004) by a friend of mine.

I want to tell you how fun it is. I've been going to FEARH BATS lately.

It's all about the music. Most of us know I love pre-wrestling for its visual aspects. That's what I think, but I don't know why. It's extremely interesting. Their music something like in front of my eyes are so beautiful. There are lots of cool-looking characters or maybe that's why I like the visual part of it.

Anyway, this story has taken a winding turn, but in one, I need to know nothing about pre-wrestling and now I'm focused with it.

I've been going to various places to see my favorite wrestlers or make that I think my work has suffered (that is, my body has suffered, and by extension, the world as I'm thinking I should save my audience for later).

Just going to watch drains me of energy-- there must be some deeper reason for it.

On My Hobbies Part Two

Gotta sit down at concerts and the like, it's really okay to take pictures at pro-wrestling matches, however, cell phone cameras, digital cameras, and video cameras are not allowed.

Her camera makes lots of noise, though.

When I can take nice, smooth pictures, it makes me really happy, but it's frustrating when I screw up. This is one reason that pro-wrestling is sort of a gamble.

I take a single-lens reflex camera with a 300 mm zoom lens with me.

The zoom lens I use is 28.2 cm. in diameter and weighs 1945 g. The camera itself only weighs 575 g. All put together, it weighs 1920 g. It's hard to hold up a camera that's almost 2 kg. My arms shake, and then my pictures are all blurry. This won't do! I'll have to take breaks.

That's how it is

But that seems like a sort of shadow reason.

Well then, about that damn heavy yet precious camera I've got. After I had it for only two months,

I LOST IT.

I looked and looked for it, but I couldn't find it. I only took it out to be repaired the other day and I didn't get to try it even once after bringing it back home. It's gone now. But I still love that camera so

This is the most depressed I've been all year. I thought the same model second-hand, but...

So out of spite I bought a new camera lens, too. My wallet is crying.

And I used to be so good at finding things that I had lost, too.

Barren Soil.

I have a theory they spoke at it home.

Last year I didn't take care of my grass, so it all withered. It made my house look broken-down.
I hated it, so this spring
I finally laid out a lawn.

I planted Korean lawn grass, which is a popular variety. It's still having trouble with weeds, so I put down
some straw and seed
good soil. I didn't really want to mess with the lawn like that, but after I tried it, it was sort of fun. It has a nice atmosphere with the
colorful bulbs and mag-
pies and the seedlings
that I planted.

I really like magpies
as they going to gray
hair for a good harvest.

The lawn and the roots
are all green. Maybe it'll raise them just right
they'll still be green in the summer, and I can cut and watch
fireworks set there.

THEY'VE BEEN AWAY SINCE

HE LOVES

A puzzling creature.

One rainy day, I saw
a strange creature
hanging around my house's gate.

An orange color

It looked like this.
As soon as I saw it, I got goosebumps and a funny feeling. But I was still able to move all right.

Was it a bug? Maybe a kind of food? I didn't know what it was called, and I couldn't find it on the Internet either.

It gave me the creeps,
but I was sort of
worried about it.
Could this be love?

They might be coming
from my neighbor's manga tree. Little bervies pop up on it sometimes.

He left a flowerpot
grass trail on my wall.

I'm going to buy some pesticide this year, just in case.

WE'RE GOING TO DO IT NOW,
OBVIOUSLY.
